

Arts and Sciences Courses

The following new course has been added to the Catalog. This course is planned to be offered starting in Spring Session II of 2023.

SCI 4040: Medical Revolutions

This course highlights several of the paradigm shifting that have taken place in history in the field of medicine. Explored will be the dominant beliefs that existed at the time of discovery, the nature of the discovery, sometimes accidental, the receptiveness of the medical community, and ultimately, the change that ensued after the discovery. Students will critically evaluate historical patterns to uncover the nature of scientific discovery in the field of medicine.
