- Normally Graduate Courses replace upper level undergraduate courses
- The undergraduate course may be either an open elective or major course depending on the student's undergraduate program. The UG advisor/coach should check with the program director when using a graduate course for a major course.
- The graduate courses listed here are not exhaustive, but rather identify the graduate courses early in the program that students should take. There are graduate courses that students are not allowed to take as undergraduate students. If students would like to take a course not included on the list, the UG advisor/coach must receive permission from the graduate program director.
